Eric Buether represents clients in a wide variety of industries ranging from oil and gas products and services to telecommunications, air transportation, the internet and consumer electronics. Eric has extensive experience and demonstrated success in litigating patent, trademark, and copyright infringement claims, as well as trade secret and other intellectual property litigation. In addition to his intellectual property practice, Eric has extensive experience in antitrust, class action and other complex litigation.

In 2004, Eric and his team represented an oil services company in a patent infringement lawsuit involving drill bit design technology patents and obtained an enhanced $24 million verdict that resulted in a $41 million judgment - one of the largest patent infringement judgments that year.

Eric is a member of the United Way of Metropolitan Dallas Alexis de Tocqueville Society, the Dallas Symphony Orchestra Silver Scroll Society, and the Dallas Opera Silver Circle. He obtained his J.D. from the University of Chicago in 1981.
